Important:

Issuer of a structured product.

Issuer's (issue vehicle's) legal domicile.

Nature of legal relationship to the parent company. Listed only if the issuer or issue vehicle is other than the parent company.

- Branch: Legally the same as the parent company.

- Subsidiary: Independent legal entity (in which the parent company has a majority stake) in the country/judicial district concerned.

The security provider covers any claim to the extent of the declared sum.

The declaration of security lists security category and extent of liability.

Company to which the credit rating and spread were given.

Credit ratings concern the provider of security, usually the parent company. Exceptions are listed below.

See separate document for explanations of Moody's, S&P's and Fitch's credit ratings.

Credit spread refers to the difference between the risk-free interest rate and the market rate a debtor is obliged to pay.

There are one- and five-year spread durations (wcds: world credit default swap pricing matrix).

Credit spreads concern the provider of security, usually the parent company. Exceptions are listed below.

Support agreements, sometimes referred to as keep-well agreements, are not direct guarantees.

Support providers promise to support issuers by, for instance, readying funds for redemption or payouts should the issuer be in default.

Investors may demand that issuers resort to the support provider concerned but may not put claims against the support agreement per se.

not available

Credit Suisse and Credit Suisse International are 100% subsidiaries of Credit Suisse Group AG.

The credit spreads also refer to Credit Suisse Group AG.

Zürcher Kantonalbank disposes of a government guarantee of the Canton of Zurich

No credit spread exists because as an owner-managed private bank, Sal Oppenheim jr. & Cie. does not grant corporate refinancing loans.

Issuers

Please note that issuers' credit ratings and spreads are only one of several criteria influencing the choice of a structured product. The information below should not be considered investment advice, nor does it constitute an offer or recommendation to buy or sell a product or take the place of a person-to-person consultation. Rather than investing in a single product, we recommend diversification. This prevents a single product in an investment portfolio from gaining too much weight, and in cases of default having too great an effect on the portfolio's overall value.

Rating and credit spread information is provided by issuer. The SSPA and the issuers listed are in no way responsible for the completeness or accuracy of the information.

No special verification procedures were performed.
